Too often, media sales people don't really know who their audience is other than age and gender categories. The purpose of this program in The Media Audit is to make it easy to help media sales people sell the qualitative benefits of their audience.

The more one knows about the qualitative strengths of the media's audience, the better able one will be to sell the benefits of that audience...to an agency or an advertiser. The Media Audit printed report and/or the composition report in The Media Audit Software is the best source for learning the make up and strengths of your audience...because you can quickly compare one media with another on the same data page.

This is the Media Cume Person Report, one of eight report options in The Media Audit software.
